Works of Art

An art that is almost a thing of the past is revived in this city by John H Bain Last Outer st a master of free-hand flourishing, drawing

Last week he presented to Harding High school a framed drawing 22x20 inches of a pair of birds following the ribbons of a scroll in three tints It is difficult to name the two birds fill this st [illegible] the lines the pen of Mr Bain have filled in space around the birds with a beautiful mesh work of lines

When the Fourth M E church remained a Junior church and an intermediate church Mr Bain drew up charters for the members to sign Framed on a good drawing paper the charters are remarkable examples of scroll work

It required about 10 hours work to complete the drawing now being displayed in the Harding room at Harding High school

Thirty nine years ago Mr Bain went to a penmanship wagon on the streets of Dallas and gained inspiration for the work in mind recently he sent a sheet of foolscap and said he had done it in 1888 59 when the work it [illegible] Professor Miller at Ohio Northern university

At one time Mr Bain taught penmanship with a person who has mastered the ruling to Mr Bain He does not use full arm movement when writing except in large capital letters For the last 10 years he has used a typewriter and as a result has lost his natural knack while his [illegible] by hand

Mr Bain draws his own designs for his ornamental drawings As a result he is making several more specimens He has not definitely where he will place them

No German Classes

"Die Wacht am Rhein" no longer are its rumbling measures heard in the class rooms of the Marion [illegible] schools sung in the native tongue Nor for years has it been heard here

Why? Because there aren't any children in the schools [illegible] who know a full sentence of the language German is a difficult [illegible] to master and the march of the World war now at an [illegible] in the public schools of the United States

Today in Harding High school [illegible] is the only real language taught and French the only foreign language [illegible] of any consequence and many [illegible] a chance to take either French or German [illegible] Northern university

Getting the "Fever"

Can spring be far away

Conundrums or [illegible] that winter is about to give way to spring, has been revealed from two sources in the city within the last few days

In the first place a half dozen robins were seen playing marbles on the ice not more than three days ago

That ought to be conclusive proof that King Winter's throne is tottering

But here is more proof Ten Marion patrons of the gentle art of angling have purchased fishing licenses in the office of Clerk of Courts Harley L Koons The tenth and last was made today When the applicant requested the yellow slip that will give him the privilege of fishing in Ohio with rod and reel he remarked to the clerk I'm getting the fever

The first license was [illegible] Jan 1

Robins Arriving

Other advance notices of spring are also arriving

Tuesday for instance the first robin was seen in two different places in Marion according to reports coming to The Star office There may have been two robins and then again it may have been the same one flitting about in different neighborhoods Allison Lair reported one of the early arrivals near the yard of his home on Walnut st and a similar report came from the Messenger home No 191 Harrison st

The first robin sign of spring however is not regarded as seriously as in years gone by Some of the birds apparently have abandoned their custom of flying south for the winter and instead spend the season in this section of the country it is claimed Two robins were reported as having been seen in the rear yard of a home on S 4th State st in December

Mrs. Hoover

...ed today by Mrs Susan ... who was a classmate ... Hoover at the old Bailey ... in 1891.

Henry entered wholeheart... ...scribing the undertook... Mrs Hardy. "When her fondness for athletics was discouraged, she turned with enthusiasm to tableaux and other forms of school entertainments. I still can see her here in the role of Joan of Arc in a class tableau, and remember how she made her coat of mail out of the loosely cut tops of tin cans, punched two with a head and neatly linked together with string.

Wanted To Burn

"Quite one thing marred her happiness on that occasion. The teacher positively would not permit Joan to be burned at the stake. Lou wanted at least an imitation burning with bright-colored paper used as flames, but the teacher, Miss Jessie de Wolf, now a widow living in Berkeley, would not permit it because of the secret fire hazard involved.

But, despite her rebuke to obtain martyrdom in her role, Lou Henry was a great success as Joan of Arc—and none of the girls in the school was jealous of her. No season-able woman could be jealous of her success today. For Lou Henry was then and is now, too delightful, too considerate of others, too loyal to admit jealousy."

The enthusiasm which the future "first lady of the land" displayed in the tableaux roles accorded to her found expression also in many original ways according to Mrs. Hardy.

"Lou organized a fan drill team of more than a dozen girls, worked out all its formations and gathered for the team rounds of applause at school entertainments,' the Whittier matron said.

Captain of Team

"As captain of this drill team, she wore a blue fringed sash that was the envy of us all. The fringe was fully a foot in depth and it appears to me even now as the most gorgeous sash I have ever seen. That sash and its wearer's radiant, strong individuality stamped Lou Henry's personality in clear relief at every entertainment."

Certainly, Lou Henry could not have borrowed her ideas from any stage performance for when the little girl left Waterloo, Iowa, she was too young to have been a theater-goer. But, as an Episcopalian transplanted into Quaker surroundings, she doubtless had broader, more original ideas than her little companions. At any rate, her drill team, with its intricate evolutions accompanied by the graceful flourishing of fans, was a decided "hit" in Whittier educational circles, according to Mrs. Hardy's recollection.

"Eight of the girls were dressed in light costumes, with light colored fans," the reminiscence continued. "The others, for contrast, were garbed in darker hues, with fans to correspond.

"Although Lou Henry worked out the evolutions of the team, one of the teachers who was greatly interested took charge of perfecting the steps and fan movements. I remember that one of the girls at rehearsal was not very observing, and the tireless teacher reprimanded her.

The girl cried, and Lou Henry dried her tears with assurance that the teacher did not really mean all she said. That was characteristic of Lou. She was constantly comforting, encouraging and helping someone.

"The men and women of today who were classmates of Mrs. Hoover could not possibly be more proud of her now than they were years ago when we were girls and boys together."

(The sixth and concluding article on Mrs. Hoover will follow.

Passing of George B. Knapp.

It is hard to realize that George B. Knapp is gone; that we will no longer be able to greet him upon the streets or in club or lodge room; that we will no longer meet him in a social or business way, and get his views on civic and business affairs. That one so filled to live should thus be taken at the very height of his usefulness to himself and loved ones, as well as the community, is shocking in its sadness.

We have long looked upon George Knapp as the possessor of a remarkably keen and analytical mind; as one never content to assume to know, but as one given to delving after the facts in every case, that he might be able to speak and act understandingly; as one of fine initiative and untiring energy in the pursuit of that which he set out to accomplish.

Our relations with him were such that we had a high appreciation of his business judgment, of his ability to evaluate people and things, and he seemingly never appraised them as they were at the time, that he did not also consider what their probable worth would be in the future. It was for this reason that his optimism regarding the future of Marion was always to us decidedly inspiring.

George Knapp was a positive character, positive alike in his likes and dislikes. He was never given to half-way measures. We can not recall ever having found him upon the fence in any matter of public interest. He was ever to be found whole-heartedly for or against a proposition. Half-hearted support of any issue was impossible to him. Having once lined up behind a cause, he was its champion to the finish, whether that finish marked a victory or a defeat. This quality in him always appealed to us, but it was a characteristic which, though endearing him to some, naturally aroused enmity in others, an enmity that is now gone and forgotten in the unlimeliness of the call which he has answered.

To License Motor Car Drivers.

The Nickels bill looking to the licensing of the drivers of motor vehicles has passed the state senate by a vote of nineteen to eight, and now goes to the house, where it is expected to encounter a far stiffer opposition than it received in the upper house, in which a similar fight was made against it.

Should the bill be enacted into a law and its provisions be enforced, we can see how it would add greatly to the safety of vehicular and pedestrian traffic alike. Under its provisions any one who had successfully operated a motor vehicle for two years, with no serious accidents, and who has not been convicted of any serious offense, can get a license upon application to the deputy registrar of motor vehicles in his county.

The application must state the applicant's name, age, sex, general description, including height, weight and color of hair, eyes and complexion, residence and business address, occupation and the license number and general description of car and experience in operating a motor vehicle.

Conviction of traffic ordinance violations must be stated and if the applicant is under twenty-one, the consent of father, mother or guardian must be indorsed on the application.

If the applicant has ever been convicted of violating a law or ordinance, or involved in an accident "in which property damage or personal injury occurred" or if the applicant is under eighteen, the deputy commissioner must require the applicant "to show cause by a written or oral examination or by demonstration or by examination and demonstration, why a license should be issued to him."

A license, which is to cost fifty cents, of which fifteen cents are to go to the official issuing it, can be revoked by any judge of any court.

If the purpose of the bill is merely to afford employment for more people; if the examinations under it are merely perfunctory; if traffic offenses are readily to be forgiven applicants or if the bill is merely to be used as a revenue producing measure—if is estimated that it will raise $800,000 annually—to feed the rapacious tax-eaters of the state in whose behalf $24,000,000 outside the regular channels are already being sought, it will not only be far worse than useless as a safety measure, but also be a downright crime against the motorists of the state.

Like many other laws, if the bill becomes a law, its worth will depend wholly on whether it is merely "used" or enforced to accomplish the purpose for which it is held out as intended, and only time will tell that.

The lower house of congress very righteously rejected the action of its pension committee in cutting the proposed pension to the widow of Major General Wood to $1,800, restoring it to the $5,000 provided for in the senate bill. General Wood devoted his entire life to his country and if ever a man died in the line of duty, he did. Paying his widow $5,000 annually is little enough in the way of recognition of the general's life work.

It is evident that the political purification vaccine administered in the last preceding election up in Chicago didn't "take." Tuesday's election up there left "Big Bill" Thompson still in control of the city council.

The enactment of the $16,000,000 military post housing bill into a law may be taken as evidence that criticism of the quarters in which some of our army commands were housed were not wholly without foundation. It is pleasing to know that hereafter the personnel of our army is to be sheltered as it should be.

Hundreds of men and women, who call themselves "Innocents" and live naked in caves, have been seized at Yurkovsti, Bessarabia. The claim of the officials is that the members of this latest-discovered sect were not living so innocently as their name implies, but rather were decidedly pagan in their rites and practices. Surely, it can not be that they also have a Volstead law over there to which to attribute their corruption!

German aviators have successfully tried out an "air train," consisting of an airplane and two trailers, the trailers being uncoupled from the plane at a height of 1,200 feet and glided to the earth separately, which calls attention to one advantage of air transportation over rail, it can do its "dropping off" without even so much as a resemblance of a spur or a sidetrack.

So great is the volume of ashes being emitted by the volcano, Santa Maria, that many of the coast towns of Guatemala are in almost as great darkness at noon as at midnight. The more we read about nature's phenomena, the more content we are to live right here in the very heart of the garden spot of the world.

The amount claimants in a United States court may collect as a result of the Vestris disaster is limited to a total of $140,000. Had relief been sought in a British court, the limitation would have been £30,000 or twenty-two and a half times what it is here in America. There is something radically wrong when such a wide discrepancy as this is possible.

Vagrant Verse.

"WITH THEE CONVERSING."

As I kneel by the couch from dawn I dark
The angel-watch of a summer bird
And I hear the answer speed to my wish
Heaven's will before my lips are quick to pray.
So all my days to God I turn my face,
Seeking for holy things in every place,
And how should I find the evil way?
For song of bird, a tree, a star at night,
The new-cut turf I wake, a crimson dawn,
A symphony, an ode, some noble thought,
A poet, a tapestry, a marble faun,
A fable rich or in tal noble verse,
These eagerly I hear them in the skies
In twofold joy when in mood thus with my God.

Infant's Digestion.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Every mother is concerned about her baby's digestion. Indigestion and feeding are so closely related that disturbance in one is always associated with the other.

From the time the baby is born until it becomes a well-grown child, it is drilled into the mother's mind that scientific feeding is essential to its welfare. If anything happens to upset digestion she is a nervous wreck until it returns to normal.

I have said a thousand times that the mother job is the most exacting in the world. It is a well paid job, because there is no other reward equal to the satisfaction of seeing that smiling baby develop day by day. But it demands accurate knowledge of many things.

What are the signs of imperfect digestion?

The common symptoms are diarrhoea, constipation, vomiting and loss of weight. Of course the last named condition may be associated with one or more of the other symptoms.

Suppose we say a few words about the diarrhoea of infants. This is due to an increased peristalsis.

By this I mean that the stripping movements of the intestine are more powerful than usual. These movements are due to the contractions of the muscular walls of the intestinal canal, rhythmic movements known as "peristalsis."

Anything that causes the peristaltic activity to be markedly increased, whether in baby or adult, is likely to be followed by diarrhoea. The urging to stool, straining and other familiar symptoms, are common signs of diarrhoea.

Increased peristalsis may be excited by lumps or other masses of undigested food in the bowel. The muscular contractions are intended to drive out the offending substances.

This form of diarrhoea is due to mechanical causes. There may be an irritation of the intestine from a chemical cause. For instance, if fermentation occurs in the bowel, the acidity may be so pronounced that the intestinal walls are excited into pronounced peristalsis.

The usual cause for fermentation is found in the taking of too much sugar. There is similar disturbance due to the failure of the bowel to tolerate the fat of the food, particularly if there is an excess of the fat.

It is difficult to determine whether the diarrhoea of the chemical type is due to an excess of sugar or of fat. If fat is the exciting cause of the trouble, this fact may be established at times by the appearance of the stools. They are anywhere from gray to brown in color and oily in appearance. The stools may have the consistency of butter.

No matter what the cause of the diarrhoea may be, the mother will wish to know what should be done about it.

The first thing is to stop giving food for a whole day, or even two days, in a severe case. Of course, this seems pretty severe treatment. The mother will be fearful that the child may starve, but certainly it will grow weak from lack of food, she will say.

Don't worry about that. The important thing is to stop the diarrhoea, or there will surely be great weakness. The only thing to give is boiled water. Sometimes rice water may be used, but your doctor will advise you about this.

When the usual feedings are continued, assuming that the child is bottle-fed, the amount of cream in the milk mixture must be materially reduced. Some infants do not tolerate fat and they must be fed accordingly.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MR. T. Q—What is the cause of a red nose?

A—Poor circulation, indigestion and constipation are usually at fault for this trouble. Sometimes it is associated with stoppage of the nose from catarrh.

JOHN B Q—How can the tobacco habit be overcome?

A—You must learn to exert a little will-power. Sometimes painting the throat with a two per cent. solution of silver nitrate, and smoking immediately after will help.—Copyright, 1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Opinion.

NOT REGENT, BUT USEFUL.

The king of England's responsibility in the scheme of British democracy is nominal, but his duties are many and serious. Nothing is official without the king's sanction, and no matter how perfunctorily the sanction may be given the mere task of royal assent is no light labor. There are many social duties which are a part of the royal routine and which, we venture to guess, become very tiresome. Another duty of the king is to visit the scenes of disasters and to say the right thing to the sufferers. In time of war he must frequently visit his armies and be the visible incarnation of the national spirit.

The illness of King George has not necessitated the naming of a regency. Despite the fact that he is incapacitated, he still enjoys the full state of monarch. A council of state does much of the routine work, but much more of it falls upon the shoulders of Prince Edward, the man who will be king.

It is well known that the prince likes to have a good time, but it is equally well known that he possesses a strong sense of duty. Since the illness of his father it has been all work and no play for Edward. He has turned to with a will, and his energy has given the British one more reason for congratulating themselves on possessing so excellent a prince.

The visit to the famine regions of the northern mines was in effect a royal pilgrimage such as is made by kings to scenes of major catastrophies. In truth the condition of the miners approaches the plane of national disaster. In this delicate business Edward proved himself energetic, tactful and contagious. In his social duties the prince has been no less effective.

A king of England who happens to be a man of force and vision may profoundly influence the course of British history. This fact was proved by Edward VII., who, despite the sovereign's lack of responsibility, made himself a true leader of his people. George V has been an excellent king, respected and loved, but he has followed the people's leaders without attempting to make himself one of them. The Prince of Wales, independent without being obstinate, affable without being common, pleasure loving without being slothful, promises to be a memorable personality in the long line of English kings.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HE MIGHT HAVE BEEN INTERESTING.

In a way, it is rather disappointing to hear that Senator Borah has turned down the attorney-generalship of the United States. By nature, and, as a result of long habit, Mr. Borah is essentially a special pleader. He simply has to be orating for something or against something; and it must be conceded that there are times when he does so with force and eloquence. His practice and disposition have, however, prevented him from becoming much more than a merely spectacular head of the foreign affairs committee of the senate. A person with a more or less judicial turn of mind ought to be in that place. But it might have been quite interesting to observe the way in which the senator would have handled the job of national prosecutor in which his predilection for argument would have found almost unlimited scope.—Detroit Free Press.

CHILD MARRIAGES IN AMERICA.

There are sound suggestions in a report on the marriage walks of the United States prepared for the Russell Sage foundation. The most shocking statement in the report relates to the marriage of young children. It recommends that by legislative enactment in states where such action is needed the age of consent be parents to the marriage of their daughters be raised from twelve to sixteen.

Much has been said with heat and indignation of child marriages in remote India. But child marriages are permitted in some commonwealths of the United States, where not a single plausible or even specious argument can be made for such preposterously early matings.

How many states of the union permit marriage of girls twelve years of age? Which are those states? Publicity would do much to abolish child marriages in this country.—Chicago News.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, March 1—Thoughts while strolling Mock metropolitan types who carry umbrellas. Irving Caesar, the lyric writer. Hatless boys in knickerbockers who carry ice skates. The lure of a chicken on a spit in a rotisserie window. Why does a jaywalker blurt out "Oop" when suddenly stopped?

Alfred E. Smith, Jr., in a low-numbered car. That oak-panelled bar shop hung with Aubusson tapestries and antique damasks. And prints to match. Marcelle Carroll, Earl's wife. Pale children with faces like sad blossoms. Who gather kindling to drag to cheerless tenements.

Gilbert Seldes, an Alliance, New Jersey, boy, who made good in the city. The old hall where slack wire artists and acrobats "at liberty" go to practice. New York's twin horrors—useless hurry and delusions of grandeur. Wonder why those people so strong for Europe continue to live in New York.

About time for the poets to begin warbling things about spring. George Gershwin and his sister. The famous professional blood donor whose fee is $200 per "done." Tiny sidewalk print shops open all night. Detectives who loiter about out-of-town newsstands. Victor Shertzinger, the movie director who wrote "Marchita."

A priest hurries by with bowed head and mumbling lips. Shabby old carriages trying to be grand. And solemn-faced drivers. Isaac Marcosson's darling shirts. Auctioneers of green jewelry who glitter with real diamonds. George White's tight collars. Those tall willowy ladies you just know carry ostrich fans at night.

The marvellous delicatessen windows—thinly cut pink hams, cottage cheese, cold slaw decked with red peppers, potato salad and bologna, yum, yum! Charming Pollock swinging a cane. Billie Burke's daughter—almost a young lady. A Chinaman with a pearl derby. The new auto row on Park avenue.

Sign on Tudor City apartment house: "Radio expert on premises day and night." A driver carries a legless man on his back to a taxi. Arty little neighborhood movies featuring O-the-agony-of-it dramas. One of those spotted coach dogs looking forlorn.

The Modern Romans.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

In the land that the Caesars once ruled, and that through them ruled the world, the genius of modern practical science has just completed a work that would have delighted the soul of the great Julius, who, if living today, might be the chief magnate of the industrial world.

Italian engineers have driven a shaft three and a half miles in length through the solid rock of Monte Oro, lining it throughout with steel and concrete, and ending it with a chute that falls nearly 2,000 feet in perpendicular height at a slope of forty-five degrees.

Water is drawn from Lake Ledro, lying at an altitude of 2,150 feet in the Alps, and thence is passed through the shaft pierced the heart of the mountain which separates it from the lowland where Lake Garda lies four miles away and more than a third of a mile nearer sea level.

To guard against the mad rush of the water down the one-to-one grade of the chute which would look absolutely vertical if seen from a short distance in front, it has been necessary to depart from the usual manner of receiving falling water with vertically placed hydro-electric generators, and to partially tame its fury before it strikes by first turning it upward against gravity and then causing it to revolve around water wheels connected with horizontal generators.

Lake Garda is surrounded by cities and industrial plants, a part of that great modern development which is turning the ancient battle plain of Lombardy into one of the busiest scenes of human labor on the earth. It is to advance the activities of this region where the successors of the Romans are learning to adopt the conquering methods of Rome's great imperator to the necessities of a new age, that the little lake on the one side Alps has been constrained to contribute the potential energy of its high-placed waters. Verona, the city of Juliet and Romeo, will be one of the long-famed places to have its storied streets and squares, including the "Tomb of Juliet" itself, illuminated with electricity born on a purple mountain top. Only Shakespeare could paint that with words!

Things like this gather strange interest from the colors of a great past, setting them out like towering structures against the sunset. Here are the beginnings of realization for Signor Mussolini's dream of a reanimated Rome. To the imagination these things grow mightier than themselves by the memory of the world-empire which floats about them. It is Rome rising from her vast grave to contemplate this twentieth century civilization which has aroused her like a thunder shock and seeing her new children, who still bear the features of the old, grappling with its novel problems of life, and following its new roads to glory and power with the old Roman courage.

No nation should feel a twinge of envy at the assertion that in 1928 Italy led all the world in increase of use of electric power. For years she has also utilized the natural vapors issuing from some of her ancient volcanic vents to produce modern mechanical energy. With the high Alps lowering on her northern border, with the many lakes and streams that water her rich plains, with her mountain backbone running the full length of the peninsula, filled with springs and falling waters, she has magnificent equipment for entering the arena of the new industrial world, while her people have the stimulus and inspiration of the proudest memories of the historical past.—Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Now a lizard, believed to have been imprisoned for centuries, is found in a crevice in the rocks. The story is even better than that of the toad sealed for thirty-one years in a corner stone. The lizard shows signs of life, as did the toad. In an English musical review, shown in New York one of the principals says: "My uncle sits in the House of Lords."

"But," says the other, your uncle is dead."

"I know it, but they let him sit there."

Plenty more to be found sitting around just like that. They are dead but have not been officially notified. We are just about as much alive as we determine to be. One has to work at being alive. It is perhaps more comfortable not to be alive—certainly on occasions. A brilliant preacher, Dr. George Laughton, preached a sermon on the topic: "How To Be Happy Though Alive." It may not be easy, but it is worth trying.

If a few generations ago small towns had planned cities, if councilmen and civic leaders had had vision, there would not be such a hopeless traffic mess in some of our large towns and cities. Today street widening is the chief civic concern. Sidewalks are made too narrow to add a few feet to the roadway. In some streets it is impossible to cut back or remove buildings. It is a well-nigh hopeless situation because of the lack of vision a few years ago. Small towns should act before it is too late. Growth comes dangerously fast to modern cities.

We live much according to theories and traditions that have come down through the years. They may have little basis in fact or common sense. There are people who sleep with their windows wide open in cold weather. They do not enjoy the cold. They suffer much, but they labor under the delusion that they are building up their health. Our grandfathers, most of them far stronger, hardier, healthier than we are, slept with the windows down. They sunk themselves in feather beds and cared little about air. Says Dr. J. Frederick Hempel, of Baltimore: "Recent scientific investigations throw interesting sidelights on the ventilation of sleeping rooms and tend to modify to an important degree previous opinions and practice. To begin with, common sense tells us that physical comfort should be taken into consideration. If you sleep better with the window wide open and the chilling drafts of pleasant rather than disagreeable, open your window wide, but do not throw it wide open in cold and inclement weather and retire with chattering teeth and sleep in general discomfort under the mistaken idea that it is healthful."

Although the Congo does not resemble its depiction on the screen and in some of the American magazines, and although the food is below deserption and one cannot often get enough water to bathe more than once in six days, I shall stay in the Congo for two years.

It is impossible to do much animal experimentation here because experimental animals are not plentiful. Moreover, the natives at the laboratories often eat the beasts.

However, Dr. Stratman Thomas says the Congo is an unlimited field for therapeutic research.

Fear Sleeping Sickness

For the past few months Dr. Stratman Thomas has worked in Leopoldville, capital of the Congo, and Brazzaville, capital of French Equatorial Africa.

At the invitation of the American Presbyterian Congo Mission, he is leaving for Luebo, in the central region of the Congo which is most heavily affected with sleeping sickness.

At different times eleven mission stations at Luebo have had sleeping sickness in the last few years, and the disease is common among the whites who ply up and down the Congo between Leopoldville, his headquarters, and the mouth of the Kasai River.

The expedition is jointly backed by the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation and the Parke Davis Research Laboratories.

When your child is sleepless.

This remedy rarely fails.

Constipation is a common cause of sleeplessness, both in children and adults. When a child is wakeful and fretful, see if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour, irritating waste. Simply give a dose of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels, and you have no more anxiety over the child's excitability and wakefulness at night. Children love this harmless "fruity" laxative. It banishes biliousness and constipation, regulates the bowels and insures pure blood, a clear complexion, joyous spirits, a keen brain, healthy appetite and helps to build a strong constitution.

See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name "California," so you won't be imposed on by imitators.—Adv.

HELPED AT CHANGE OF LIFE

MRS. CORA CALAHAN
216 E. Ashton Ave., Grand Island, Nebr.

"I am going through the Change of Life. At times I would cry for hours. I got tired of going to the doctor so I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken the first bottle I began to get better. I have taken eight bottles now. I feel that it has saved my life, also doctor's bills. I work for a family of six, washing, cooking and do all my own work. People say I look like 25."—Mrs. Cora Calahan.

MRS. P. C. HELMING
822 E. Harrison St., Portland, Ore.

"Lydia E. Pinkham did for me what doctors failed to do. When the Change of Life began I was very poorly. Now at 55 I do all my own work, attend two dances a week and it is hard to make people believe I am over 40. I never see a woman in ill health but I advocate your medicine because I know its value. Every woman should take it, not just for a month or two but until they have passed the critical period."—Mrs. F. C. Helming.

I'm not so sure Lady Barber murmured reflectively And then very ... and with a certain constraint Well some one made the acquaintance now of my man What do you think of him? I mean really

Her smile was sincere confident and an invitation to sincerity and confidence The pair helped ... were on the terms of two men ... dered intimate by long unclouded friendship and mutual esteem—or as near thereto as a pair of women could ever be

'Not at all Harriet answered I'm sure you appreciate him I admit he's a little spoiled'

A little one girl I used to think that a man could be as difficult as he was when he lived in the same house with his father and his sisters in Burnley and the menfolk always sat down to meals in their shirt sleeves' Seems a hundred years ago' But truly he's more difficult now Much more And yet he's learnt a lot since then Sore I' * * * Funny that if I'd thought to tell you the name of his yacht, you might've never have gone on board, and all this wouldn't have happened!'

'But nothing's happened, Maude I mean so far as you and he are concerned. Seems to me the point is what happened before he joined the yacht—seeing that we're talking'

Love's Awakening
The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affection

Footprints Tell Strange Story of Prince Georges Disappearance

As Marva's frantic cry rang out I saw that her terror was justified The car was empty and the land was indeed empty Whatever fate had befallen Prince Georges whether he was alive or dead the answers to these questions were somewhere beyond the black curtain of mystery which had dropped between us and the hapless young man

Hurrying after her from Nora's car I had reached her side just as she made the discovery that Prince Georges was missing and I held her tightly as her knees crumpled under her in the first shock of the discovery But only for a second or two did her dauntless spirit yield to the exhaustion due to her grueling race for aid Then she straightened herself in my arms and spoke crisply

I'm all right Come on! We've got to find him Oh! why did I leave him'

Her voice rose shrilly in the self accusation which when I had seen the empty car I had known would be hers But my heart was filled with a deep thankfulness that she had run to the nearest habitation for aid when she found herself unable to restore Prince Georges Whatever had happened to him could not have been exerted by Marva's slender strength But I knew that she gallantly would have risked death or maiming in his aid

You did the only possible thing dearest I assured her You were sure that the man who shot him had gone with his companion and what else could you have done

That's what I thought Marva returned dolefully but they must have come back again after I heard them running away through the underbrush But where can they have taken him

Her eyes were traveling the space lighted by our lamps and that of the wrecked car as though she could wrest the answer to her frantic query from that tiny illuminated space For a second no one ... ...ghtly toward the ... and had ... cool a heavy ... away from ... Yes I said It was ... and the footprints were ... normal At the side of the wheel the ground was trampled that it was impossible to distinguish the footprints Here was what Marva had seen in her futile attempt to get the prince unconscious home out of the car and it was easy to deduce that the two men had succeeded in lifting him clear and carrying him I felt away for there was no indications that his body had been dragged along the ground

Let's Youth Mirth Marva cried excitedly Here's where I got out of the car on the side opposite Georges and I ran ... and to him And then over here's where I ran into the road There's quite a straight line of ... going one way but these other two you can see where they came up to the car and went back again

I nodded and finds I them thankful that when Noel had drawn up his car behind the other we had rushed up to it from the rear and at the left so that we had not ... those other footprints which had left a clear trail for any observant person The footprints coming toward the car were irregularly spaced with the heel prints less defined than the soles as would be the case if men were running lightly But those returning toward the road were evenly parallel and showed that every part of each foot had been deeply pressed into the sand It was plain that two men had ... swooped her I think Noel ... gazed ... ... helplessly Noel's ... ... continued Jimps was white and set and I knew that small ... ... classic nose ... ... was ... him I bowed ... NESS FATAL TO GEORGE B. KNAPP

Chamber of Com- ...ce and World War C... Passes Away

...ber of the Marion Real Estate board, member of the state board of governors of the Ohio Association of Real Estate boards, vice chairman of the Marion county chapter of the Red Cross and president and manager of the Marion Chamber of Commerce.

One of his notable achievements in community welfare here came when he was serving as head of the Chamber of Commerce several years ago and the problem of preserving the local Red Cross chapter as an active agency for good here was developed.

Failure of citizens to subscribe a sufficient amount of funds for financing the Red Cross resulted in a crisis which threatened to end the organization's active existence here. It was Knapp who met the emergency by enlisting the support of a group of local business men to carry the Red Cross over the bridge and maintain its effectiveness.

He also served as director of public safety here during the administration of former Mayor I. J. Anderson.

Served His Country

George J. Knapp's career in addition to being one of exceptional activity in business and public welfare work was marked by a military record of distinction.

His patriotic attitude as an American citizen found expression from his earlier years in a readiness to serve his country in wartime and he became active in local military affairs more than two decades ago when he enlisted in the local National Guard company and later became its captain.

This early training equipped him admirably for service in his country's cause when America was drawn into the World war.

Shortly after declaration of war he offered his services to the government and was accepted. He entered the first camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison on May 1, 1917, and was commissioned captain of infantry Aug. 15 of the same year.

Wins Promotion

He organized Company A of the 330th infantry, 83rd Division at Camp Sherman and was promoted to major in the same regiment Dec. 31, 1917. He served in France in 1918 and 1919, special recognition being given his ability as an officer when he was placed in command of the 330th infantry in France in September and October of 1918. He was the senior officer on duty with the regiment when it was mustered out in 1919 at Camp Sherman.

His military record summarized shows tart including his four years with the local National Guard unit he served six years with troops in every capacity from private soldier in time of peace to commanding a regiment on foreign soil in time of war.

After graduating from Marion High school in 1898, Mr. Knapp began his career with employment as a reporter on the old Marion Mirror, work which he followed three years. While in high school and for several years afterward he engaged actively in athletics. He was a member of the high school football team.

Experience as Publisher

Following his experience as newspaper reporter he became publisher of the Marion Republican, a weekly newspaper published at a plant which also did job printing and book binding. In 1912 he severed his connections with the Republican and went to Lima where he was manager of the Daily Telegraph from 1912 to 1916, inclusive.

In 1916 he returned to Marion and entered the insurance business as a member of the insurance firm of J. A. Knapp & Son.

Following the World war Major Knapp returned to Marion and engaged in the real estate business, which he continued during the greater part of the time up until his recent illness. About a year ago he added an investment brokerage department to his business with offices in the Marion County Bank building.

One of the outstanding projects connected with his activities in real estate development here was the Vernon Heights subdivision. He was one of the original promoters of this enterprise which has resulted in giving Marion one of the finest residential districts to be found in any city of its size in Ohio. He remained identified with the Vernon Heights Realty Co. until about a week ago, when he resigned as a director and secretary-treasurer because of his health.

Church Affiliation

Major Knapp was a member of the First Presbyterian church and was also enrolled in all local Masonic bodies and Scelto Consistory, Scottish Rite of Columbus, being a thirty-second degree Mason. He was a member of the executive committee of the Harding Memorial association, Buckeye Lodge of Elks and a charter member of Lord-McInnis Post No. 102 of the American Legion.

He was married in 1907 to Miss Edna DeWolfe who survives him. A daughter, Mrs. Wilson Wright, lives in Youngstown.

Also surviving, him are his father, James A. Knapp, secretary of Marion Lodge of Masons; three brothers, James William Knapp of Zanesville, William L. Knapp of South Bend, Ind., and Frank M. Knapp of Marion, and three sisters, Mrs. Frank Elliott Latimer, Mt. Vernon; Mrs. Ethel Hughes, Columbus, and Mrs. Walter Guthrie, Marion.

Major Knapp's death is the first that has occurred in the family circle since his mother passed away 26 years ago.

His father, James A. Knapp, is a native of Marion and his mother, whose maiden name was Miss Rosetta Livemore, was born in London, Va.

REED SAYS SERVICE PUBLIC LIFE IDEAL

No Self-Advancement or Financial Reward, Retiring Senator Says

...sking things done and to the ...ment of law.

The Missourian will leave the senate with his colleagues free...spective of party expressing open regret at his departure from public life. Even his political opponents declared his going was a loss to the country.

"There is no one to fill Jim Reed's shoes," said Senator Moses, Republican of New Hampshire. "His retirement is a real loss to the country."

The country needs more Jim Reeds, observed Senator Brookhart, Iowa insurgent. "The country is losing one of its great constitutional servants."

Reed was a great man," said Senator Overman, Democrat of South Carolina. "The nation will miss him when he goes back to private life."

REED retires at the age of 61. His public life began in 1888 as police prosecutor in Kansas City, Mo. He then served four years, 1890 to 1894, as mayor of Kansas City. In 1910 he was elected to the senate for 1911-1917 and again in 1922. He was defeated.

The Missourian probably will be remembered most as a fighting opponent of the League of Nations as an investigator of corrupt elections and as an unyielding foe of prohibition. His career however has been replete with constructive legislation. He has not been anti-everything. National defense measures have always had his support.

One of his first great accomplishments was helping to enact the federal farm loan act. Another was his fight for the joint land bank act. These bills loaned $1,750,000,000 to farmers at a saving to them of $35,000,000 a year in interest. He helped create the federal reserve system.

Reed won the Justin county, Missouri, Wilson-Republican primaries by opposing the League of Nations. But Mr. Justian previously was a champion of the wartime president. Reed both defended Wilson's policies when Mexico was invaded. He defended the wartime president on other occasions but on the league question they parted company never to be friends again. In 1922 Wilson tried to defeat Reed for reelection but the Missourian started one of the outstanding campaigns of American political history, won renomination and was returned to the senate.

IN his final term Reed's outstanding fights were the battle against the Hague disarmament treaties, against the World Court for the ousting of Senator Medill Frank L. Smith, Republican of Illinois for denying the oath to Senator-elect William S. Vare, Republican of Pennsylvania, for an interpretation of the Kellogg-Briand treaty for the new cruiser bill and against the five year penalty for prohibition violators.

He says he will miss the Missourian's eloquence. Silver-haired and silver-tongued Reed has commanded respect and attention when ever he entered debate.

Asked what he considered the greatest speech ever made in the senate in his day he recently said:

Tom Heflin's speech on his fling bill was the most effective I've enjoyed more senators than any other speech I've ever heard.

And what he considered the most important piece of legislation enacted during his career Reed said: The federal reserve act—it is properly administered.

"What was the greatest speech you ever made?

"None of them was ever worth a damn," he replied. "It's simply a choice between demerits."

WASHINGTON READY FOR ITS BIG SHOW

President-Elect Takes Things Easy Today for First Time

men who will constitute Mr. Hoover's official family have become definitely identified.

There remain two "mysteries." Friends of the president-elect reiterated today that when the selections for secretary of agriculture and secretary of commerce are made known there will be real surprises. The selections for these two posts, they said have not figured in the pre-cabinet speculation. That would seem to eliminate a score or more of men whose names have been widely mentioned for the jobs and indicate that in these appointments Mr. Hoover has followed his personal inclinations rather than the advice of his numerous political advisers.

Mr. Hoover will take the oath of office about 12:30 o'clock Monday on a flag draped stand erected on the east steps of the capitol. His friends said today he would "swear" to support the constitution instead of using the Quaker "affirm" which he could do if he so desired. His inaugural speech probably will consume 25 or 30 minutes in delivery. After that the big parade down the avenue with marching troops, a score of governors and their staffs, and many organizations in line.

While all that is going on, Calvin Coolidge, private citizen, will be lunching privately either in the capitol restaurant or on a private car, waiting for the Montreal Express to pick him up and take him away to the peace and quiet of a little town.

Addresses Club—Dr. F. A. Stengel, local curio collector, addressed the Meridian club at its weekly meeting held yesterday noon in the Y. M. C. A. restaurant. Dr. Stengel chose as his subject, "Hobbies" and in the course of his talk told of his collection, which is one of the best in the state. About 25 members were present.

counted 17 points while the Big Four had to be content with five.

Never Had Chance

Morral never had a chance against the Monroe township five from Marion county, and Coach Merrill's defense was exceptionally weak allowing the Monroe forwards and centers to slip through for 24 points. The Marion county crew was never out in front and were held scoreless in the second quarter.

Only in the second quarter of the game with Plain City did Waldo's five get back in the scoring column. During the rest of the game the Waldo players committed numerous fouls which netted the Plain City quint six free throws.

Leading Mr. Dye's Mr. Morrals was Swing Dyer, and Mowery, right forward, for Mr. Dye will take up the fight for a championship Saturday of county session. Before the report of the nominating committee the awards will be made in the various exhibits.

CONGRESSMAN TO TAKE OATH MONDAY

Mouser Now in Washington; Family Group To See Inauguration

It will be two weeks Saturday since Grant L. Mouser, Jr., was again became a private citizen after ending more than two years service in the office of the state attorney general.

Mouser will return his standing as a private citizen until next Monday. Then he will again enter public service.

When Mouser returns from a trip to Washington, D. C., he will be a member of the United States house of representatives. On the same day that Herbert Hoover becomes president of the United States Mouser will take the oath of office as congressman from the eighth Ohio congressional district.

Mouser's territory comprises Marion, Morrow, Crawford, Wyandot, Hardin and Hancock counties. As congressman from this district Mouser will take the seat held the last four years by Brooks Fletcher defeated for his third term at the general election last November.

Will Attend Inauguration

Mouser, his family, Mrs. Grant L. Mouser, Sr., his mother, and Mrs. Helen Young, his sister, left Cleveland Wednesday for Washington where they will attend inauguration ceremonies. Members of the Mouser family will also see Grant, Jr., take the oath of office as congressman.

Although Mouser has retired from the attorney general's office his services will not be lost to the 15 Ohio cities building an increase in gas rates proposed by natural gas companies. That he has definitely known rates when it was raised by members of his law firm that the congressman would remain in the fight as counsel for the cities involved.

Soon returning from the attorney general's office Mouser has returned to Marion where for the time being he will engage in private law practice as a member of the firm of Mouser, Young, Mouser & Whaley.

Unless there is a special session of congress called as now appears likely the congressman will remain in Marion until he begins active duty in the house of representatives next December. A special session will likely take him to Washington until the end of June.

Flood Crisis Passes in Marion County, Is Report of Surveyor

ELIMINATE DANGER OF BREAK IN DIKE

Bank Protecting LaRue Strengthened To Hold Back Flood

SCIOTO GOING DOWN

Drops Three Feet at Prospect; C. D. & M. Resumes Use of Track

The recent flood crisis in Marion county had apparently passed today, according to reports from the office of County Surveyor Cecil R. Learner.

The Clark dike on the Scioto river above LaRue, which threatened to give way yesterday, has been strengthened and danger from that source has been relieved. A break in the dike yesterday would have poured an additional thousands of barrels of water over the already inundated country.

The Prospect rd. from Newmans to Prospect is still closed. The town is accessible from the west. Direct interurban service between Marion and Columbus was resumed last night by the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co.

Drops Three Feet

The river dropped about three feet at Prospect last night, according to reports from the surveyor's office. The Little Scioto west of Marion had dropped only a few inches this morning. This stream is causing little trouble, however, as all roads over it are open. Water still covers the Agosta rd at one point but the depth is only a few inches, it is said.

Officials in the surveyor's office today advise all motorists to drive slowly over water covered roads as in two places in the county culverts have been found washed out after high water receded. Numerous washouts have also been found along road sides.

The Prospect rd. from Newmans to Prospect is the only highway in the county still under water.

No damage was found on the Scioto dikes near Green Camp when water receded there last night.

COURT ENDS SESSION

The district court of appeals, composed of Judges Kent W. Hughes, of Lima, Charles L. Justice, of Marion, and P. J. M. Crow, of Kenton, completed its one-day session here yesterday afternoon.

The court heard arguments in cases carried to it from the Marion county common pleas court on error and appeal. Decisions will be handed down after the court returns to Lima.

PUPILS SEE PLAY AT UPPER SANDUSKY

Present Incidents in Lives of President and Mrs. Lincoln

UPPER SANDUSKY, March 1—700 pupils of the Upper Sandusky schools saw Judge Charles L. Bull and Miss Louise Deegan present the little play, "The Heart of Lincoln" in the auditorium of the Senior high school building, Thursday afternoon. Mr. Bull bore a very great resemblance to the martyred president, Abraham Lincoln.

The family life of the Lincoln's in the White House was portrayed. Mrs. Lincoln was shown to be a high tempered, nagging, yet big-hearted wife. The incidents as presented in the play actually happened in the lives of the Lincolns during the Civil war period.

Merrimac-Monitor Fight "Great," Asserts Survivor

James McKenzie, lastd, watched the historic fight between the Confederate Merrimac and the Union 'Monitor' at Hampton Roads, Va., as pictured in this reproduction from an old engraving

Says Cheese-Box on Raft Attacking Looked Like Wasp

"SURE—I remember it clearly, the smoke and the soot the thunder of the guns and our little 'cheese-box on a raft' attacking the larger Merrimac like a wasp"

The speaker was James McKenzie, and he talked of an event that changed history and revolutionized the navies of the world It happened 67 years ago when the first armor plated warships joined furious battle in Hampton Roads Virginia He is the only man alive who can boast of having witnessed that epochal struggle

Hale and energetic even if he is a bit feeble under his 86 adventurous years James McKenzie is now an inmate of the Bryan County Farm near Jones Okla The current interest in America's naval building, program threw this hearty veteran into the spotlight of attention because he alone can tell at first hand of the battle the Monitor and Merrimac

The veteran's account of the battle in Hampton Roads is graphic and minute He tells how the Monitor hastily built after news of the Merrimac operations had reached Union ears steamed toward the Virginia shore but ran aground on the morning of March 9 1862

It was a low strung looking craft with a single turret plated over all with thick armor Much smaller than the only other metal warship of the time the Merrimac it fully attacked the Confederate vessel each discharge of cannon shaking the [illegible] boat from stem to stern All day the two clumsy antagonists maneuvered and fired [illegible] the Merrimac [illegible] with cannon balls its men mostly injured or exhausted, gave up and steamed away

It was a great fight McKenzie declares

Important Victory

Dry leaders claimed that enactment of the measure is the most important victory ... forces have won in Congress since the Eighteenth amendment was written and submitted to the states for ratification.

Not only did these demonstrations climax a long struggle on Capitol Hill but they believed they had placed a powerful weapon in the hands of President-elect Hoover upon whom they are counting for the most serious drive ... dry law violators ever made in the nation.

Senator McBride general chairman of the Anti-Saloon League was among the spectators in the house gallery when the measure which may enable his predecessor Wayne B Wheeler could force through congress was passed.

Drastic provisions of the Jones bill originally sponsored by Representative Stalker Republican of New York had lain virtually dormant in the house during two congresses. It was finally reported to the house a year ago but even its sponsors did not demand a vote until the measure was unexpectedly put through the senate a few days ago.

Reed Protests Bill

Senator James Reed Democrat of Missouri raised his silver-toned voice against it in his last big debate in congress with Senator Borah Republican of Idaho but failed to turn the tide. House lawyers criticized the measure as being couched in ridiculous legal phraseology but the drys refused to permit amendment because this would endanger final passage.

The bill has the indorsement of the department of justice. Mrs Mabel Walker Willebrandt assistant attorney general having personally appeared before committees to request its enactment. The fact that the justice department had sought the law was expected to assure its approval by President Coolidge.

Senator M Brie general supervision of the Anti-Saloon League was among the spectators in the house gallery when the measure which ... Wheeler could force through congress was passed.

The provisions of the Jones bill originally sponsored by Representative Stalker Republican of New York had lain virtually dormant in the house during two congresses. It was finally reported to the house a year ago but even its sponsors did not demand a vote until the measure was unexpectedly put through the senate a few days ago.

Reed Protests Bill

Senator James Reed Democrat of Missouri roused his colleagues to ... when he assailed the bill in his last big debate in congress with Senator Brookhart Republican of Idaho but failed to turn the tide. House lawyers criticized the measure as being couched in ridiculous legal phraseology but the drys refused to permit amendment because this would endanger final passage.

The bill has the endorsement of the department of justice. Mrs Mabel Walker Willebrandt assistant attorney general in charge personally appeared before committees to request its enactment. The fact that the justice department had sought the law was expected to assure its approval by President Coolidge.

HARDING MUST "FIGHT" FOR VICTORY

PRESIDENTS MEET BEXLEY IN OPENING CONTEST TONIGHT

Locals Face Easy Teams in First Two Rounds of Tourney

BY KARL R McELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

FIGHT!

That is what Coach Paldy Compton has been attempting to instill into his Harding high school basketeers this past week in a desperate attempt to bolster up the failing morale of the quintet for its opening contest in the central Ohio basketball tournament at Delaware tonight.

As Harding enters tournament play at 8:45 o'clock against Bexley the attitude of the team more than anything else will determine the outcome of the game.

Got One Break

There can be no doubt that Harding got at least one break in the drawings by landing in the weaker bracket of the tournament. But so called weak teams do not always run true to form after running championship aspirations of many quintets.

In Bexley the Red and Black draw a five not expected to set the world on fire at least the tournament on fire with flames of spectacular basketball Harding can win—if they fight.

After getting off to a good start at the first of the season with victories over Columbus West and Lima Central, the local cagers played their first league game at Mansfield losing on the floor as the underdogs. In view of the impressive record established by Mansfield at the start of the season Harding won. It was the best exhibition of basketball the Marion five put up the entire season. The team may have been playing over its head but I am inclined to believe that the play that night represented the true calibre of basketball Harding is able to exhibit. At least it had the most important thing—fight.

Lose Three In Row

After that Bucyrus and Galion won over the Presidents. Delaware followed with a one point win. Against Ashland Harding won only to be beaten by Shelby and Zanesville the following week. Closing the season of scheduled games, the Red and Blue took a grand walloping at the hands of Delaware.

It seems as though the victory over Mansfield was the turning point in Harding's season. Just what happened after that game will never be known. But it is a sure thing that the Red and Black did not have the poise to get into the thick of the fray and fight. There has been whisperings of discension among members of the team. This may be true. Little private feuds usually of no consequence, eliminate the confidence one player must feel toward others.

If the fighting spirit of the team is restored in the tournament fans can look forward to nothing worse than the team entering the semi finals.

By beating Bexley in the first round Harding will then face Columbus Aquinas in the second played at 1:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Aquinas team's record this season includes 27 games 16 being losers.

In the other games played in the tournament the writer would pick Columbus East to win over West Columbus West has not won a game this season. East would end East into the finals against South with the latter team being favored in this tilt.

Upper bracket games finds Delaware meeting Westerville at 6:30 Saturday night. Delaware looks the best of the two teams while Mt. Vernon should walk over the Lancaster five. Central and Newark will not enter the competition until Saturday playing the winners of the preceding two games.

LUTHERANS TACKLE DEAF MUTES HERE

To Clash on Steam Shovel Court Tonight at 8:15

Marion's first basketball game in March will be played tonight when the Lutheran Sunday school quintet tackles the Ohio State School for Deaf five out of Columbus. The game is scheduled for the Marion Steam Shovel court and will start at 8:15 o'clock preceded by a preliminary battle between two Steam Shovel shop teams one hour earlier.

Members and followers of the Lutheran quint are hoping for victory but are most too heartened by the all too impressive record set up by the mutes. The mutes play about one or two games each week and win more than their share. In the course of the past season they have defeated several of the fastest class B high school fives in their section of the state and have given several of the class A teams of Columbus good scares in addition.

Lutherans will be concluding a season that has seen them banish on the long end of a score no fewer than five times while tallying the short end of the count two times below that number. If the church cagers take the free tonight they will finish the season with six won and three lost for a percentage of .667.

SAN ANTONIO Tex. March 1—Practically the entire roster of the New York Giants was scheduled to participate in today's workout following the arrival of the last contingent of regulars last night. LOCALS WIN RIGHT TO ENTER MEET AT COLUMBUS MARCH 9

Eight Straight Victories Copped by Local "Y" Team at Van Wert

TAKING eight straight victories the Marion Y. M. C. A. basketball team swept through to victory in the fourth central Ohio district tournament last night at Van Wert. It was the fifth consecutive year that the local team had taken first place in the district meet but no victory before had been so impressive. The victory gives the Marion team the right to go to Columbus a week from Saturday and compete for the state championship there.

Findlay came closest to defeating the local outfit when it dropped a 15 to 12 game after losing the first game of the match 15 to 1. The tournament was run off on the double elimination basis which compels a team to drop two sets before it is definitely out of the play. A set is composed of two out of three games.

Meets Findlay First

Marion tackled Findlay in the first battle of the tourney at 7 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. The Findlay five was no match for the locals losing two in a row. Lima then essayed to stop the Marion Games drive but dropped two straight by scores of 15 to 6 and 15 to 1. Coach Rudolph used his substitutes most of these two games which were anything but fast.

Tiffin was then tackled in the third round of play and was just 17 points below the locals losing 15 to 7 and 15 to 6. The Tiffin team then played Lima in the semi finals to see who would battle Marion for the championship and Tiffin took two out of three.

Homes Offensive Work

In the finals Tiffin showed the brain of the play in which it had been forced to use the regulars while the Marion team led by Rodney Hann and his cohorts submerged the hopes of the Tiffinites by scores of 15 8 and 15 8.

There were no outstanding individual stars on the locals lineup the whole team displaying teamwork that far outshone any of the other teams in the tourney. Rodney Hann again showed the brilliant offensive work that has made him an all state man time and again while Ted Riddell fulfilled all the promises of Coach Rudolph made earlier in the season.

All the other regulars Roy Rue, George Doering, Roy Waddell, Bob Heminger, I. G. Siford, Virgil Powell and Charles Isely showed top form that has caused them to be given more than an even chance of doing big things at Columbus next week.

MEEKER HANDS BAD

Paulino and Schmeling Victor Next on Program for Jack, Garden Says

And Paulino Must Get by the Winner of Heeney-Von Porat Affair, with Heeney Forced To Put Away Jimmy Maloney and Then—You Figure It Out

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Marion Star Staff Writer

NEW YORK March 1—Jack Sharkey winner of the gruppen—very gruppen, indeed—encounter at Miami Beach probably will go next for a time exposure fade in the summer with the survivor of a proposed match between Paulino and Schmeling, according to tentative plans being entertained today by the Garden corporation. Just to keep the record balanced this makes the plans that are being entertained Dormie Nine or something on the fans at Miami Beach.

Anyway the next Sharkey appearance either will be in a heavyweight title fight or a fight calculated to qualify the winner for a championship meeting depending on whether John Dempsey the boy producer decides to give himself up and turn professional. The Schmeling-Paulino bout is scheduled for some time in June provided the latter doesn't forget to duck in some match they are arranging for him either on March 22 for a week later.

Pay and Get By

This latter which was offered to Paulino over the long distance telephone in Miami last night is to be the next episode of the heavyweight serial if it is arranged. The winner of the Heeney-Von Porat affair in Chicago will be offered to Paulino for this shot with the proviso that Heeney must get by Jimmy Maloney in Boston tonight.

This isn't a promise it is the old politicians promise. I suppose you get by Jimmy Maloney in Boston like you get by the sacred will of China.

But hold! Is the Garden corporation forgetting Young Stribling? No. Rollo but frankly it is strong for Just indications around the premises today were that the boys in the business office were prepared to put on the elevated heaver for Stribling in the immediate and intermediate futures inclusive.

Tough for Heeney

They also are making it tough for Heeney by insisting that he take both Maloney and Von Porat in bouts over which they have no control and it seems that the only way Von Porat can qualify as by stopping Heeney like an unwound clock.

Sharkey Schmeling and Paulino are the preferred candidates. They like to hold Sharkey out of as much impediment as possible because they still remember the house he drew with Dempsey that time and he also he hasn't missed yet with Ike Rub Christner and Stribling. Paulino may be said to have dismounted Von Porat early in the season but those things seldom take. As for Schmeling didn't he knockout Johnny Risko the washed up heavyweight? He did. And didn't all the other heavyweights knock John Dy a bed of petunias? Yes sir they did not.

SHELBY WINS AT SANDUSKY MEET

Takes Fast Game of Tourney from Norwalk, Plays Fostoria Next

Shelby high school cagers who finished in a tie with Harding for fourth place in the North Central Ohio league fought their way into the second round of the northern Ohio district meet tourney being played at Sandusky yesterday today and Saturday by walloping Norwalk 31 to 25. Shreffler Shelby's all league tipoff man messed things up in general from a Norwalk standpoint by scoring six field goals and three fouls for a total of 15 counters.

Mollick and Crill Shelby forwards were the only other men on their team to score making eight and six points respectively. Galin Norwalk guard went tough for the losers with his total of nine points.

Shelby meets Fostoria tonight in the second round of the tourney. Fostoria worked its way into the second round by defeating Tremont champions of the Little Seven by a score of 15 to 11. It was the lowest score that the Tremont team has been held to all season.

Carey Signs Agreement with City Commission for Arena Removal

BY JAMES E. KILGALLEN
Marion Star Staff Writer

MIAMI BEACH Fla. March 1—Miami will be the winter boxing capital of the nation for the next five years it was indicated by the following an agreement made between Miami city commission and William J. Carey vice president of Madison Square Garden Corp. who conferred with Jack Dempsey in staging the Sharkey-Stribling spectacle at Miami Beach Wednesday night.

The Miami commission agreed to provide $10 000 for a new down town baseball park and a baseball park on a site in City park. Miami Carey in turn agreed to give it to the city and pay over in excess of $10 000. A contract is to be drawn up on which it will be stipulated that the Madison Square Garden Corp will stage an annual mid winter bout of national caliber to be given under the auspices of the local post of the American Legion. The city is willing to provide a site and the funds for the building the arena.

Dempsey Goes North

Carey is leaving here tomorrow night in charge of a delegation of New York Boston and Philadelphia boxing writers who will go north on a special train.

Dempsey elated over his success as a promoter in his first venture will depart for New York next Monday accompanied by his wife Estelle Taylor screen star. Jack has some business to clean up including his 25 per cent profits of the Sharkey-Stribling spectacle. After a short stay in New York he will go to Detroit to look over the boxing situation in that city.

Shaute was offered $1 000 more this season than he received last but held out for some time for a raise over last year.

M'LARNIN MAY END HIS DAYS AS LIGHTWEIGHT

NEW YORK March 1—When Jimmy McLarnin squares off against Joe Glick in their 10 round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight the Irish boy's fighting career probably will be ended. Jimmy first appeared as a lightweight. He is finding it increasingly hard to make the 135 pound limit and will prefer to go after Tod Morgan's junior welterweight title or even step Jim Dundee a few pounds if the Baltimorean would give him a crack at the welterweight crown.

GREAT SOX TODAY

DALLAS Tex. March 1—A large contingent of home runners will welcome the Chicago White Sox when they arrive here late today to establish their spring training quarters. Among the welcomers will be several Sox players who reported here direct. Manager Lena Blackburne and a dozen regulars are aboard the Chicago special.

Revised figures made public today show that the gross receipts of Sharkey-Stribling fight were $990 969. The net profits will be close to $100 000 one fourth of which will go to Dempsey. The Garden will probably wind up with a profit of $50 000. The actual paid attendance was 21 468. Carey estimated the total expenses at about $2 5000. This includes Stribling's share and the $100 000 guarantee paid to Sharkey.

Bearcats Close Season by Defeating Miami, 40 to 32

CINCINNATI March 1—University of Cincinnati's basketball team shares first place today with Ohio Wesleyan for the Buckeye Athletic association championship having defeated Miami here last night, 40 to 32, closing the season.

Captain Dan Early playing his last game as a Bearcat forward played one of his best games of the season sharing honors with Dick Brandgard who also wore the Cincinnati colors for the last time.

Taking an early lead, the Bearcats remained ahead all the way but were threatened some by the Big Red stars. The first period ended 27 to 17 for Cincinnati.

With only a few minutes to play and the score standing only at 38 to 30 Cincinnati forged ahead with the kind of ball that won the undisputed championship last year and dropped baskets from all angles of the floor.

... already necessitated ... of a portion of the vil... of Shawnee. It started in the ... and has been burning since, ... way through rich coal ... doing unestimable damage.

Most of the time it burns underground but occasionally breaks through to the surface. Three explanations have been offered as to the origin of the fire. The first report said it was started by striking miners, the second by an explosion and the third by combustion. The last, mining engineers point out, is the most plausible.

Lethal Gas Dangerous

Probably the most dangerous aspect of the subterranean blaze is the lethal gas it produces. Residents here know the deadly effect and keep at a safe distance. Gas masks must be used by those who approach it.

A smoldering crater, some 50 feet square, had been exposed today and the flames leaped into the air leaving in their wake a blackened mass of vegetation and a countryside that represents the famous "no man's land" in France.

Many million dollars worth of coal has been destroyed, while Mine owners, the state and county have tried to check the fire. Concrete walls have been sunk in its path, the mine has been flooded, the entrances have been sealed, but all to no avail.

Fear For School

The new Straitsville school house is directly over a vein of coal and it is feared that the fire may eat its way through this and undermine the structure.

Miners under the direction of Thomas Richards, district mine inspector, dynamited the territory surrounding the crater yesterday in hope of checking the steadily approaching flames.

Freakish pranks have been played by the blaze. In one instance, the fire burned its way around a house, ravaging the vicinity but leaving the house untouched. Oftentimes, a family will be enjoying a dinner or a parlor chat when the flames will break through the flooring or lap at the foundation. In such cases, the only thing to do is to abandon the house.

It is a great potential threat, and is known in this section of the country as "Ohio's only live volcano."

Local Firemen Kept Busy During February, Report Shows

Fire calls in the city during February increased by four over the same month of the preceding year. During the last 28 days a total of 29 alarms were sounded. Last year with 29 days in the month only 25 calls were answered.

The loss this year was considerably more than in 1928, according to an estimate made by Fire Chief T. J. McFarland. The 29 fires last month were responsible for damage amounting to $8,830 while the 25 fires during February last year caused only $1,583 damage.

Four of the fires last month occurred in one day and caused more than half of the total damage.

YANKEES WORRY ABOUT TONY LAZZERI'S LAMENESS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1—Members of the New York Yankees were somewhat concerned today over Tony Lazzeri, star second baseman who was handicaped by a sore shoulder late last season. He developed a sudden lameness in his throwing arm yesterday and stayed on the sidelines.

Although Manager Huggins declared the trouble was in Lazzeri's arm and was not a recurrence of his shoulder injury, the entire team was wrapped in gloom today at the prospect of losing the services of the coast slugger.

STORE BRANCHES OUT

CLEVELAND, March 1—Further expansion of the Halle Brothers Co., Cleveland department store, was announced by officials today in a statement that a "specialty shop" will be opened in Mansfeld in April. A similar store was opened in Erie, Jan. 7, and other units will be opened later, it was announced.

EX-BROADWAYITE MAY WED ROYALTY

It is hinted from Paris that Mabelle Gilman Corey, left, divorced wife of William E. Corey, steel magnate, and ex-Broadway beauty, will marry Don Luis Du Bourbon, right, first cousin of King Alfonso of Spain. Mabelle is now in Paris.

A strong solution of washing soda, stirred at night, will keep it clean and in boiling water, if poured down the spurifled.

French Toast

Tastes good — and is good for them. Fresh HOLSUM Bread, dipped in egg and milk, then fried in butter, and liberally covered with rich syrup — there's nothing better for the little tots and nothing they would rather have for breakfast or lunch.

Its equally good, too, for grown-ups, because this food combination contains all the elements essential for stamina, vigor and mental alertness.

HOLSUM is a better bread for every form in which bread is served. That's why it pays to ask your grocer for it, by name.

Only 7 Building Permits Issued in February, Record Here Shows

A total of seven building permits were issued at the office of the city clerk during February as compared with 45 for the same month of the preceding year.

Although the permit record has not made an encouraging showing thus far, contractors and lumber men are confident that this month will see the trade opened up and predict that a large number of structures will be started in March.

During February of 1925 a total of 14 permits were issued, calling for an expenditure of something like $65,000, while the seven permits during that month this year are for only a little more than $10,000.

FIND 25 BODIES

Victims Apparently Starved to Death in Snowbound Village

VIENNA, March 1—Rescue workers found the bodies of 25 persons in the snowbound village of Zavaje, near Karlstadt, Jugo-Slavia, according to dispatches reaching here today.

The victims apparently had starved to death. The village had been isolated for months owing to the unprecedented snowstorms in central Europe this winter.

NOW YOU'LL PAY.

That Is, $1 Extra for Your Favorite Auto License Number

COLUMBUS, March 1—Ohio motorists who desire certain license numbers for their machines will each be compelled to pay a special fee of $1 for them, if the house follows the action of the senate.

The Nickels bill, providing for such special license fee, was passed by the upper body of the legislature yesterday afternoon, the vote being 25 to 1.

Senator Johnson, Fulton county, spoke in favor of the measure, contending that if certain persons desired special privileges, they should pay for them.

DIES WHEN ON TRUCK

LONDON, March 1 — George Lacron, 67 years old, vice president of the London Creamery Co., and London business man and Madison county farmer, died when riding in a motor truck with his driver.

White? Not these clothes!

THERE was plenty of soap. The clothes were scrubbed thoroughly and rinsed. But the water was hard. The soap mixed with the hard water and formed a dirty ring around the basin—scum! The scum got into the fabric of the clothes. That's why the clothes weren't clean.

But they can be clean. How? By washing them in soft water. And how can hard water be made soft? By adding Melo. The water is now a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap; and the soap much more effective. Get a can today at your grocer's.

After all, most husbands are like children

MANY a man owes his daily fitness, his success, to the wife who sees that "he takes good care of himself." She watches that he gets enough sleep, takes enough time to eat. She acts as family physician with every meal she serves. And often as not, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is her trusted ally.

For this healthful cereal has been adopted by countless women as the surest, easiest way to insure plenty of daily roughage, lacking in so many foods.

They know how important roughage is. In safeguarding their families from constipation they are responsible for their own happier homes.

Constipation is the bane of thousands. It attacks health. Ruins youth. Saps energy. Too often it brings serious disease. And yet it is easy to prevent. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed.

Why ALL-BRAN is so effective

Bulk or roughage relieves constipation naturally. ALL-BRAN furnishes bulk in generous quantity because it is 100% bran. This bulk absorbs moisture and distributes it through the digestive system. Gently distending the intestines—exercising them—sweeping out wastes and poisons. In a part-bran product the amount of bulk is seldom sufficient to completely perform this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because they know that it is 100% bran and 100% effective.

Different from unnatural pills

ALL-BRAN works as nature works. How much better than habit-forming drugs whose dose must be constantly increased — and which sometimes injure the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is an inviting cereal to eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Sprinkle it into soups too. Use it in cooking—recipes on package. Mix it with other cereals. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. If you will serve it in some form regularly, you will surely protect your family from dread constipation.

ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, cafeterias. On diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Guaranteed!
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

ROSALIE is neither an advocate of show baths nor is disposed to break the ice in order to enjoy a swim. So here she is again after her little airplane trip. Although they're wearing transparent velvet in the form of dresses in the town she left behind her they're wearing it in bathing suits here. Of course, it's the waterproof kind in this case and the printed silk coat has patch pocket of the velvet, too. She's being a little careless with the scarf but should she lose it, it would be returned soon, for it is easily identified as matching the coat.

FINE RECORD MADE IN SCHOOL BANKING

Savings Habit Shows Steady Progress at Vernon Heights

Residents of Marion interested in school children and their problems will find much of interest in the compilation of school banking figures of Vernon Heights school at the end of the semester.

Vernon Heights school led Central junior high schools on every bank day during the first semester, beginning with a percentage of 67 on the first bank day and with 87.4 per cent on the final day. There was a steady increase in the number of children banking and at no time after the first day did the percentage go below 50. At one time it reached the high point of 94 per cent.

During this time there was an average of 291 pupils present, and an average of 172 banking. The total amount banked was $699.61 for the semester, with an average of $30.39 each bank day and an average of 29 cents banked each time by each pupil.

Weekly amounts ranged from $26.38 to $57.57 with two exceptions. The first banking day after Christmas the deposits were $56.46, and once, when a new pupil transferred an account, there was a deposit of $150.04.

Statistics show that the banking habit is growing among the students through the encouragement and cooperation of parents and teachers.

This Week's Simplified Recipe—BAKED ALASKA!

Cake Mixing Time, Less Than 4 Minutes!

Mrs. Donald Brewer is another concert to "Kitchen-tested" flour.

Another Adventure in "Kitchen-tested" Baking

Now Baked Alaska has been simplified.

Of the first 427 women trying this recipe, 424 succeeded perfectly. Two who failed blamed a mistake in mixing; the third her oven. Try it.

By the development of an utterly new type of flour—Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour—baking has been simplified amazingly for housewives. And the cause of most baking disappointments banished.

"Kitchen-tested" means that every batch of this flour has been tested in an oven just like yours, before it goes to you. Tested for uniformity of result with home recipes.

That means Gold Medal Flour always acts the same way EVERY TIME with your recipes.

Ask your grocer for GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour. For perfect results, be sure and get that brand of flour before you try this recipe.

Cut out along this line and save

RECIPE . . . . Baked Alaska

6 egg yolks, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup GOLD MEDAL "KITCHEN-TESTED" FLOUR, 2 tsp. baking powder, ¼ tsp. salt, ⅓ cup boiling water, 1 tsp. lemon juice.

METHOD: 1. Beat egg yolks with rotary beater until thick and lemon colored. 2. Add sugar gradually, beating all the while. 3. Sift flour once before measuring. 4. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. 5. Add boiling water, flour mixture and lemon juice to egg mixture and beat well, still using rotary beater. 6. Place batter in unbuttered pan and bake. The spring form cake pan in which the bottom has been inverted to form a depression in center of cake is correct size, or regular Mary Ann Cake pan can be used. TIME: Bake 40 minutes. TEMPERATURE: 350° F., moderate oven. SIZE OF PAN: One 10-inch spring form pan, or a Mary Ann Cake Pan, not a tube center pan. AMOUNT: 12 to 16 servings. Meringue and Filling: 6 egg whites, 1 cup sugar, 2 quarts strawberry ice cream. METHOD: 1. When cake has cooled and is time to serve dessert, make meringue by beating egg whites very stiff and gradually beating in sugar. 2. Place cake on paper on board and fill depression in cake with ice cream. 3. Cover ice cream and sides of cake with thick icing of the meringue. Be sure ice cream is thoroughly covered so that heat of oven will not melt it. 4. Place in oven 4 or 5 minutes until meringue is delicately browned. 5. Remove from oven, slip cake from board onto serving platter and serve at once. TIME: Bake from 3 to 5 minutes. TEMPERATURE: 500° F., very hot oven. NOTE: You can make up individual servings enough to serve 6 to 8 persons by making one-half the cake mixture in a bread loaf pan. When cooled split cake in two layers, put cream on top of loaf cake. The cake must extend out a little beyond the ice cream on all sides. Cover with one-half the meringue mixture and bake in same way.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 1—Spreading evening up transactions for the first day of the delivery month and a mixed assortment of news caused an erratic price trend in the local grain market yesterday. Wheat and corn recovered moderately from the previous day's sharp decline.

Wheat opened higher with cables failing to respond to the break of Wednesday. Liquidation attracted by the higher level brought a setback to below the previous close, but good buying appeared and when nervous shorts covered prices rallied easily to close with net advances of ¼@⅝c.

Corn was sharply higher early but later opposition through selling against offers and spreads against purchases of wheat. This pressure found buying support limited until prices were back below the previous close. A late rally with wheat brought closing grains of ¼@⅝c.

Choppy markets were also the order in oats and rye but with a limited trade these grains failed to rally with wheat and corn. Oats finished unchanged to ⅛c off, while rye was 1c lower to ⅛c higher at the close.

Heavy supplies of wheat available have displayed their potential ability to weaken the market on the rapid advances, while the prospects of crop damage and better foreign demand were purchasers by likewise a possibility bring a widening demand which checks declines abruptly. Both price breaks this week have brought large increases in the open interest, which expanded to the record figure of 139,915,000 bu. Wednesday. This barometer of widening holding interest is one of the chief reasons for nervousness on the part of shorts.

Longs in March wheat took advantage of the late bringing to liquidate holdings in the delivery month and the spread between March and May widened 3c to 5½c. This is the widest spread in many years. The difference presents an excellent opportunity for elevator interests and for that reason it is expected deliveries will be well taken without depressing the futures. Estimates on the amount of wheat to be delivered today vary from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 bu.

Corn was firm, but lacked the broad buying interest necessary to sustain prices in the face of profit taking and spreading. Receipts continued to liberal and primary arrivals were only 855,000 bu. compared with 2,105,000 bu a year ago.
